WANN provides essential immigration legal services and culturally relevant community education in the Upper Valley region of Vermont and New Hampshire. In July 2018, WANN became an official program area of WISE. The new arrangement ensures that humanitarian immigrants are more strongly supported. Alongside WISE’s Crisis and Advocacy Program, Emergency Shelter and Supportive Housing Program, and Prevention and Education Program, WANN will provide comprehensive services to immigrant survivors of gender-based violence. We believe that this migration empowers both organizations to live more fully into our shared vision to create a world of freedom, justice, equality, and dignity where all can thrive.
Community Education and Networking
Since 2011, we have worked to meet the needs of our increasingly diverse population through workshops for entities that have contact with immigrants, such as: medical centers and health clinics, public school English Language Learning educators, law enforcement, and social service providers.

Past trainings include:
• Cultural Effectiveness for Local Service Providers
• Orientation to Public Schools for Families New to the U.S.
• Humanitarian Immigration Options
• Know Your Rights for Immigrants

Immigration Legal Services
U.S. immigration law protects migrants who are victims of crimes, such as domestic violence, or who have suffered persecution before fleeing their home country. We provide free consultations to assess an individual’s eligibility for humanitarian immigration status or for other benefits under the law.

WANN’s Legal Services:
• VAWA Petitions for Victims of Domestic Violence
• Asylum and Refugee Issues
• T Visas for Victims of Human Trafficking
• U Visas for Victims of Crimes
• Naturalization
• Humanitarian Petitions
Through collaborative networking, we provide direct advice and referrals to individuals and organizations.

A Growing Need
Our services are unique and essential to building personal stability for our clients. Without legal immigration status, individuals are unable to work and are vulnerable to victimization from many sources, such as criminals who traffic humans, and abusers who use immigration status as a tool of domestic violence. Client trends reflect this type of vulnerability. The majority of our clients are victims of domestic violence or persecution. Most are women and children, and live in poverty. U.S. Census results and local indicators show that the foreign born population of the Upper Valley is growing. Nationally, the legal climate for immigration is changing fast and exposes humanitarian immigrants to extreme stress and vulnerability. WANN’s services are needed more than ever. Our goal is to increase options for our Upper Valley communities.

Emergency Preparedness

If there is an emergency, such as a fire, robbery, or serious medical problem (for example, someone in the house is not breathing, unconscious, or seriously injured), dial 9-1-1 on any phone. Tell them what the emergency is so you can get the right kind of help, such as the police, fire department, or ambulance. Do not delay calling, even if you cannot speak English. If you speak a language other than English, learn how to say the name of that language in English so the 9-1-1 dispatcher can quickly call a telephone interpreter. Make sure you can clearly state your home address and telephone number in English.

In addition to personal emergencies, large-scale emergencies can be caused by weather or man-made disasters. Many big storms or other disasters can knock out heat, power, and communication. Below are a few examples of disasters caused by nature, and some tips on what to do to protect yourself and your family. Learn more at: www.ready.gov/natural-disasters.

Tornado

Strong winds over land that take a funnel-shaped cloud from the sky to the ground. Tornados can destroy buildings.

- If your area is under a tornado warning, take shelter immediately.
- Go to the lowest floor in a building, away from the windows and doors.
- Protect your head.

Earthquake

Sudden shaking of the ground that can cause the ground to crack and buildings to be destroyed.

- If you are indoors, drop to the ground, take cover by getting under a sturdy table, and hold on until the shaking stops.
- If you are outside, stay in the open until the shaking stops. Move away from buildings, streetlights, and electrical wires.
Hurricane
Storms that form over the ocean with high winds, strong rain, and tall waves. The wind and flooding from hurricanes can destroy buildings.

- If a hurricane is likely, listen to the radio, TV or internet for information on what to do.
- Stay inside, away from windows and doors.
- Evacuate if you are told to do so by local authorities.

Winter Storm and Extreme Cold
Lots of snow, very low temperatures, strong winds, and icing.

- Stay indoors during the storm.
- Keep dry.
- Do not drive unless necessary.
- Do not use cooking stoves to heat the house.

Some things you can do to prepare yourself for hazardous weather and/or events:

- Use the Booklet on this website to create a plan and to prepare in advance:
  www.acf.hhs.gov/ohsepr/children-and-families#preparedness
  The booklet will help you:
  - Make an Emergency Kit for your home.
  - Make an Emergency Kit in case you need to leave your home.

1. Your Rights with Law Enforcement (Police)

When approached by police, YOU HAVE RIGHTS, regardless of your immigration status

- You have the right to remain silent. If you wish to exercise that right, say so out loud: “I will remain silent.”
- You have the right to refuse to consent to a search of yourself, your car or your home, unless the police officer has a search warrant. You can say: “I do not give you permission to search my....”
- If you are not under arrest, you have the right to calmly leave. You can ask: “May I leave?”
- You have the right to a lawyer if you are arrested. Ask for one immediately: “I want a lawyer.”
- Regardless of your immigration or citizenship status, you have the constitutional protection of your life and liberty through due process of the law.

When approached by police, you have responsibilities

- Do stay calm and be polite.
- Do not interfere with or obstruct the police.
- Do not lie or give false documents.
- Do prepare yourself and your family in case you are arrested.
- Do remember the details of the encounter.
- Do file a written complaint or call your local ACLU if you feel your rights have been violated.

For more information about your rights as an immigrant, visit: www.aclu.org/issues/immigrants-rights

2. What you should do if stopped by Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) on the street?

- If you are stopped by ICE officers, you have the right to remain silent. You may say: “I will remain silent until I speak to an attorney.”
• If you are not a U.S. citizen and an immigration agent requests your immigration papers, you must show them. If you are over 18, your immigration documents with you at all times.
• If you do not have immigration papers, say: “I want to remain silent.”
• Do not lie about your citizenship status or provide fake documents.
• You do not have the right to an appointed attorney, but you can hire one on your own. Do not sign anything without reading it and understanding it. Talk to a lawyer before signing anything.
• If possible, carry the name and number of a lawyer who will take your calls.
• You have a right to call your consulate. They may be able to assist you in finding an attorney.

3. What should you do if ICE comes to your home?

• If you believe ICE officers are at your door, do not open it. Ask who the agents are and why they are there.
• Speak through the door if possible, although opening the door does not give the agents permission to enter. If needed, ask for an interpreter.
• If they want to enter, ask them if they have a warrant signed by a judge – not just by an immigration official. Ask them to slide it under the door. Look here for a sample of a judicial warrant: www.aclu.org/know-your-rights/what-do-if-immigration-agents-ice-are-your-door
• Do not open your door unless ICE shows you a judicial search or arrest warrant naming a person in your residence and/or areas to be searched at your address.
• In all other cases, keep the door closed. State: “I do not consent to your entry.”
• If agents force their way in anyway, do not attempt to resist. If you wish to exercise your rights, state: “I do not consent to your entry or to your search of these premises. I am exercising my right to remain silent. I wish to speak with a lawyer as soon as possible.” Everyone in the residence may also exercise the right to remain silent.
• Do not lie or show false documents. Do not sign any papers without speaking to a lawyer.
4. What to do if stopped in a car or other vehicle within 100 Miles of the US Border?

Federal law gives U.S. Customs and Border Patrol (CBP) the right to board vehicles (such as cars and trucks) and vessels (boats) and ask for immigration documentation within 100 miles of the border, including the seacoast. Almost all of NH is within this 100-mile area, and a good portion of VT. You must stop when required. It is a felony to flee. You still have the right, in this border zone to say:

- “I will remain silent until I speak to an attorney.”
- If you are detained for questions, you can ask what is the “reasonable suspicion” that you have violated immigration law. It must be more than just a guess on the part of the immigration officer. If they cannot tell you, you may ask: “Am I free to go?”
- Immigration must have either probable cause or your consent to search you or your belongings. If they ask if they may search you, you may say “No.”
- Immigration officers must have some information about you that gives them the right to arrest you. Your silence alone is not enough to allow them to arrest you.

If asked for immigration documents, remember:

- U.S. citizens are not required by law to carry proof of their citizenship.
- If you have valid immigration documents and are over the age of 18, the law requires you to carry these. It is advisable to show these documents if asked to produce them, or you can be arrested. If you have a temporary visa, the law requires that you show proof of this status if asked.
- If you have crossed the border without inspection in the passed 14 days and are within 100 miles of the border, you are subject to expedited removal. This means you do not have the right to go before an immigration judge before you are deported. If you are put into expedited removal and you do not fall under this description, you should tell the agents. If you fear being returned to your home country because of harm that will come to you there, you should also let the agents know.
5. Your Rights in the Work Place

Safety

The Occupational Safety and Health Act or “OSH Act” establishes a “general duty” for employers to provide a workplace free of known hazards that can cause death or serious physical harm.

OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) is applicable to nearly all private employers and their employees in the U.S. The law covers almost every field of business, including manufacturing, construction, the food industry, service jobs, car washes, private educational institutions, etc. Workers are covered regardless of immigration status.

There are a few categories of workers NOT covered by the law:

- People who are self-employed (for example, plumbers in business for themselves),
- Farm workers on small farms which employ only immediate family members,
- Domestic workers who work in private homes directly for the family (workers employed by an agency to do domestic work are covered),
- Government employees – these workers are covered by other similar laws.

The OSH Act is enforced by the OSHA, an agency within the United States Department of Labor.

Employment Discrimination

Immigrants are protected from employment discrimination by laws enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). The EEOC is a federal agency responsible for enforcing laws prohibiting employment discrimination and harassment because of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age (40 and over) and physical or mental disability.

- Employers with 15 or more employees (20 or more for age discrimination), employment agencies, unions, employer union apprentice programs, and local, state, and federal agencies must obey these laws.
- If you think that you have been discriminated against on the job or while applying for a job, you should contact the EEOC. The law has strict time limits for filing a charge of discrimination, and in some cases the EEOC will not have jurisdiction unless the charge is filed within 180 days of the occurrence of discrimination. Because of these filing limits, you should contact the EEOC office as soon as the discrimination has occurred.
- When a charge of discrimination is filed, EEOC conducts an impartial investigation to determine if the laws were violated.
- You may call 800-669-4000 to be connected with the nearest EEOC field office to you.

6. Your Rights and Responsibilities at your Child’s School

All students, regardless of immigration status, are entitled to a public education. The law provides that no state shall deny equal educational opportunity to an individual on the basis of race, color, sex, or national origin. The U.S. Supreme court ruled that undocumented children and young adults have the same right to attend public primary and secondary schools as do U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Like other children, undocumented students must, under state law, attend school until they reach a mandated age, usually 18.

Unfortunately, some schools and school districts ask immigrant parents to show proof of U.S. residency before they can enroll their children in public schools. These actions may be illegal if they have the effect of discouraging parents from enrolling their children.
Under this decision, public schools should:

• Enroll all migrant students in a timely manner.
• Assign a number generated by the school for students without social security numbers.
• Provide services to each migrant student that are comparable to services offered to other students in the school district.
• Adopt policies and practices to ensure that migrant students are involved in the regular school program.
• Be aware that they have no legal obligation to enforce U.S. immigration laws.

Under this decision, public schools should NOT:

• Deny admission to a student during initial enrollment or at any other time on the basis of immigration status.
• Treat a student disparately to determine residency.
• Engage in any practices to “chill” the right of access to school.
• Require students or parents to disclose their undocumented status.
• Ask questions to students or parents that may expose their undocumented status.
• Require social security numbers from all students, as this may expose undocumented status.

Call the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights at 800-421-3481 or email: ocr@ed.gov for advice about the appropriate actions taken by public schools.

7. Your Rights and Responsibilities Related to Family Violence

What do you do if you suspect child abuse or neglect?
New Hampshire law requires any person who suspects that a child under age 18 has been abused or neglected must report that suspicion immediately to the Division for Children, Youth and Families (DCYF).

www.dhhs.nh.gov/dcyf/cps/stop.htm

If a child tells you that he or she has been hurt or you are concerned that a child may be the victim of any type of abuse or neglect, you must call the DCYF Central Intake Unit at:

800-894-5533 Outside NH: 603-271-6562
8am-4:30pm Monday to Friday
Call your local police department with urgent child abuse or neglect reports during DCYF non-work hours (between 4:30pm-8am or on weekends and holidays).

• Proof of abuse and neglect is not required to make a report.
• Reports of abuse and neglect concerns are confidential and can be anonymous. If you have asked that your name not be disclosed, please know that DCYF will make every effort to remove your name from all DCYF records of the report and investigation. However, if the case ever goes to court, a judge may request identifying information.

What do you do if DCYF is called to your home, or regarding your child?

• You do not have to let DCYF into your home on property unless they approach with law enforcement or a court order. You do not have to let DCYF interview your child without a lawyer present.
• You have the right to have a lawyer or other person you identify present for a DCYF interview.
• If DCYF has reason to believe that a child is in imminent danger or at risk of serious harm, they may get law enforcement or court order to enter the home.
• They are required to inform you of the specific nature of the concerns that were reported to them. They will not identify the reporter unless the case goes to court.

8. Domestic and Sexual Violence: Be Sure to Know Your Rights

Domestic and sexual violence – including violence or abuse of an individual by their spouse, intimate partner, or other family member – is against the law in the United States. It does not matter if the sexual or domestic violence happened for the first time when you came to this country, or if it happened before arriving and has continued. The fact is that sexual and domestic violence can happen regardless of where we live, who we are, who we love, where we come from, what our economic status is, what language we speak, or what our citizenship status is.

You have the right to be treated with respect and to feel safe emotionally and physically. If someone makes you feel unsafe in anyway, it is not okay. Your relationships, especially the closest ones, should support and nurture you exactly as you are. No one deserves to be treated disrespectfully or in a way that takes away choice, power or control.

Being an immigrant or refugee can mean extra challenges to finding safety from abuse. For example:

- Your abuser may lie to you about your rights, use your cultural background against you, or use threats about child custody or deportation to silence and frighten you.
- You may worry what might happen if your abuser is deported.
- You may feel dependent on your abuser economically or for immigration status.
- You may worry about your family here or in your home country if you choose to speak out about the abuse.
- You may feel that you cannot reach out for help if English is not your first language.
- You may worry about whether you can use or trust the court system to keep you safe if you are a person without documentation. Additionally, turning to the police or other authorities may seem unsafe if they were sources of danger or abuse in your home country.

Things You Should Know

- You have the right to live free from sexual and domestic violence. Regardless of your immigration status, you can get a protection order from the courts.
- Abuse is never your fault. Abusers use a pattern of behaviors to have power and control over the victim.
- There could be immigration, employment, housing and welfare options for you.
- You are eligible to apply to the courts for a protection order against your abuser, even if you are undocumented.

The United States passed two laws to help make sure that immigrant survivors/victims of sexual or domestic violence can seek safety and support in this country. Even if you are an undocumented immigrant, there are different ways to gain lawful status in the U.S. without the knowledge of your abuser. If you have questions about your immigration status, it is important to contact an attorney who specializes in this work to assist you.
There are two options that may be available to you:

VAWA Self-Petitions

If your abuser is a US citizen or legal permanent resident and you are either:

1. the battered spouse,
2. the child/step-child who was battered or witnessed spousal abuse of your parent/step-parent, OR
3. you are a parent who is battered by your adult child, you may be eligible to file an immigrant visa petition (self-petition) under the Violence against Women Act (VAWA). You may be eligible for this form of relief regardless of how you entered the country. Through the VAWA Self-Petition, you may eventually become eligible for employment authorization and a green card without the knowledge or consent of your abuser. If you have a 2-year conditional green card based on a marriage, you may be able to file for removal of the condition without your partner, based on your abuse.

U-Visas for Victims of Crime

If you are a victim of a crime (including domestic violence and/or sexual assault) and are undocumented, but not married to your abuser, you may be eligible for a U-Visa. The U-Visa is generally available for crime victims who:

1. have suffered substantial physical or mental abuse from criminal activity,
2. have information regarding the criminal activity,
3. assist government officials in the investigation or prosecution of such criminal activity.

U-Visa holders receive employment authorization and a path to a green card.

Warning Signs of Abuse

Perpetrators of domestic violence use many different tactics to have power and control over their partners. The control escalates gradually and often it is difficult to see what is happening. Not having a support system can make it much harder because there is no one to point out that the behaviors are not okay. Below is a check list to determine whether you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship:
Are you with someone who...

- disrespects you in public or private; puts you down; criticizes whatever you do; undermines everything you say?
- acts jealous and is possessive of you; will not let you spend time with your friends or family; swears your friends and family are trying to ruin your relationship?
- controls what you read, watch, or your access to information; constantly checks up on you via phone, email, or in person; demands you share social media passwords and monitors your texts and phone messages?
- prevents you from working, sleeping, or taking care of yourself; prevents you from getting treatment, interferes with medications or makes it difficult for you to get to medical appointments?
- insists this is what relationships are like; will not accept breaking up; blames you for the problems in your relationship?
- pressures you to do sexual things; shames you about your sexuality; treats you like a sex object?
- forces you to drink, use drugs, or do things that could get you into trouble?
- destroys your belongings or property around you?
- threatens to use personal information or spread rumors about you?
- threatens to hurt oneself, you, or both of you?
- undermines your parenting; threatens to take away your children?
- treats you like a servant, makes all the decisions, gives orders; believes that men should be in control and powerful and that women should be passive and submissive?
- has a history of violence and bad relationships; loses temper easily; brags about mistreating others; blames others for all problems?
- uses any unwanted physical contact such as pushing, pinching, hitting, restraining, choking and kicking?
- threatens to ‘out’ you to family, friends, or your work?
- threatens to turn you in to authorities and get you deported; tells you that you are endangering the community?
- threatens to put you in a nursing home or interferes with your ability to get out of the house when you want?
